PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION IN THE SPHERE OF FORCED INTERNAL MIGRATION IN UKRAINE

Keywords: public administration, resettlements, internal migration.

Due to military actions in the territory of Donetsk and Lugansk regions, and also because of the annexation of the Crimea, the problem of state management of forced relocations acquired special relevance in Ukraine. According to statistics, the largest number of immigrants move to large cities of Ukraine, which creates an extraordinary burden on the labor market and the infrastructure of these regions.

From the context of the State Strategy for Regional Development, it can be concluded that the positive effect of managing internal migrations is seen only in the uniformity of resettlement of the migrants by the territory of the country. At the same time, the document does not propose any measures that would consider internal relocation as a factor of possible socio-economic growth of the regions.

It is necessary to use an integrated approach for managing internal involuntary resettlements, namely, to study the needs of regions in specific specialists, to shift the emphasis from the wishes of the migrants to the interests of the receiving regions, and to provide state support to the receiving regions and solve the problems of the migrants by the forces of these regions.
